APRIL 16 PROGRAM

DIMEJI GISANRIN
CLASSIFICATION TALK

Today, our Club heard all about Dimeji Gisanrin, who presented his Classification Talk. He is President & CEO of Wright Restoration Services. He is married and has twin 15-year-old daughters.

As a child of Nigerian parents, Dimeji was born in Kalamazoo, Michigan when his parents were in University there, but grew up in Nigeria, where he attended K through 12th grade.

He returned to the States in 1998, attended Western Michigan University (where his parents had gone), studied Economics and Finance and got then his MBA at Wilmington University.

He initially pursued a banking career for about 20 years, and then made a dramatic career change by purchasing his own business. He responded to a question by saying that the customer service skills he learned in banking have stood him good stead in running his own company.

Dimeji learned about Rotary through his Episcopal Church and his "service above self" has him serving on the board of the WCASC, among other organizations.

He enjoys Football (the Ted Lasso kind); cycling and hosting Thanksgiving annually for his large family.
